Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 21 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Warm sunshine but with showers, turning clear and cold overnight.

Today:
Quite a cloudy start, but dry with some hazy sunshine in places. Scattered showers will develop through the late morning and into the afternoon, some quite heavy. Plenty of sunny spells between and feeling warm, particularly in the sunshine. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers clear by evening, followed by clear skies overnight, although turning breezy. Quite a cold night to follow with rural frosts likely, especially in northern and eastern areas. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Thursday:
Fine and dry throughout, with mostly sunny skies. However, feeling cooler along the south coast with brisk winds and some cloud cover. Windy with risks of gales in exposed areas. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Dry and occasionally cloudy into the weekend. Rather warm but feeling cooler in the breeze. Strong winds in the west and risks of gales in exposed locations, gradually easing later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.